

SOLITARY IS WIDESPREAD + DAMAGING

80 days, three weeks, 72 hours, 800 days.....These are the responses of kids when asked how long they were kept in isolation. Iso, administrative seg, time out, disciplinary confinement. All euphemisms for inhumane treatment of children, essentially locked in closets for extended periods of damaging, punishing time. Often without TV, books, school, mattresses, pillows, blankets. The standard seems to be holding kids for 23 hours and sometimes allowing them out for an hour of "large muscle movement"...although no one really knows how this time period has become the standard. What is known is how widespread and damaging this practice is.

Put an isolation room in front of your university center, in your library or law school, or at your national conference. We built one that is easy to assemble, is flat-packed and can be rented for the occasion.

Solitary Confinement comes complete with a mattress and a speaker system that gives voice to the endless number of children that have been in these cells in clips of 15-60 seconds.
